LaSalle Solutions Introduces New Business Unit to Help Enterprise Organizations Tackle 'New IT'

The new business unit, BreakFree Solutions, is well positioned to help companies accelerate to the cloud, transform their data centers and automate IT services.

ROSEMONT, Ill., Aug. 18, 2016 — LaSalle Solutions, a leading provider of technology life-cycle asset management services, announced today that it has launched a new enterprise cloud solutions business unit called BreakFree Solutions.

The IT industry has transformed, but the majority of enterprise IT organizations have not. This resistance to change has caused conflict between IT and the business units utilizing their services. BreakFree Solutions removes this conflict and drives enterprise IT to embrace a culture of controlled pioneering and advancement.

"The introduction of our new business unit, BreakFree Solutions, expands our service delivery in data center transformation and the acceleration and automation of IT services," said Robert Metzen, president and CEO at LaSalle Solutions.

BreakFree Solutions offers innovative solutions to help IT navigate the complexities of the transformation to Enterprise Cloud. BreakFree has built a comprehensive ecosystem of approved partners that are held to clearly defined high standards of service, including Nutanix, Amazon Web Services, Microsoft Azure, Chef, ClearData and Workspot.

"LaSalle Solutions has a long history developing industry-leading services and solutions, and building strong technology partnerships," said Mitch Northcutt, president of BreakFree Solutions and an industry leader in the development and implementation of business technology strategies. "The BreakFree Solutions team is a dedicated group of technology architects and engineering leaders that continue this tradition with experience, expertise and a comprehensive delivery framework to accelerate the transformation to 'New IT.'"
